TIRED OUT!

At this season nearly every one needs to use some sort of tonic. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is almost every physician's prescription for those who need building up.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS—THE BEST TONIC.
For Weakness, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, etc. It has no equal, and is the only iron medicine that is not injurious. It enriches the blood, invigorates the system, restores appetite, aids digestion. It does not blacken or injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other iron medicines do. Dr. G. H. Binkley, a leading physician of Springfield, Ohio, says:
"Brown's Iron Bitters is a thoroughly good medicine. I use it in my practice, and find its action equal to all other forms of iron. In weakness, or a low condition of the system, Brown's Iron Bitters is usually a positive necessity. It is all that is claimed for it."
Dr. W. N. Watkins, 1219 Thirty-second Street, Georgetown, D. C., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters is the tonic of the age. Nothing better. It creates appetite, gives strength and improves digestion."
Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

WASHINGTON DISPATCHES

BOTH HOUSES OF THE LEGISLATURE NOW IN SESSION AGAIN.

Speaker Carlisle Not Yet Ready to Announce His Committee—Messrs. Lamar, Vilas and Dickinson Unconcerned About Their Confirmation—Notes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In the senate to-day a variety of petitions were presented protesting against arbitration on fishery questions; against repeal of any of the provisions of the inter-state commerce law; favoring and opposing various tariff changes, and calling for the issue of fractional currency. Mr. Cullom introduced a series of amendments to his postal telegraph bill. Mr. Brown introduced a resolution demanding the repeal of the internal revenue taxes.

A resolution was adopted on motion of Mr. Vest calling for the reasons for delay in erecting the congressional library building.

Mr. Sherman then at 1:45 took the floor to discuss the president's message. He criticized the message for its failure of all reference to foreign relations, and to the interesting question on national affairs and for postponing all things, celestial or terrestrial, until the surplus revenue be disposed of. It was an "extraordinary" message. There was nothing new or strange about a treasury surplus. President Jefferson and President Jackson had met it in their day, and Republican administrations had, on many occasions, since the war grappled with it, either by payment of the public debt or by a reduction of taxes. The Democratic party had had control of the house of representatives for many years and had not originated or proposed a reduction of taxes. The only Republican congress in ten years had by the act of March, 1883, largely reduced both internal taxes and customs.

Why had not the president followed the example of his predecessors by using the powers conferred on the secretary of the treasury, and applying the surplus to the reduction of the public debt? If the president had regarded the surplus as a danger, why did he not bring his influence to bear upon congress to provide for a reduction of taxation, and why had not congress applied the remedy? The only answer was that a controlling majority of the Democratic party would not allow a bill to be reported, unless it contained provisions which would greatly injure or destroy domestic protection. If it had been the desire to reduce taxes without reducing American production, the task was easy; but the speaker of the house had used his enormous powers, with the heavy hearty support of the present, to prevent even the reporting of such a bill. Even without a reduction of taxation, the surplus revenue might have been applied for great National objects but for the vetoes of the president for the failure of the secretary of the treasury to exercise plain discretionary powers conferred upon him by law, and for the failure of the Democratic house of representatives to make appropriations for some of the highest National objects.

Among these, Mr. Sherman mentioned the Blair educational bill, the dependent pension bill, the river and harbor appropriation bill, and other legislative projects. If appropriations had been made for these purposes, and for coast defenses at the present condition the treasury, which now so alarmed the president, would not have existed. He also asked why the president had not convened congress in special session last summer, instead of now endeavoring to drive congress pell mell, by an outcry, to reverse the policy of the country for thirty years. When the president and secretary of the treasury tried to alarm the country so as to induce congress to break down great industrial interests, he pointed them to the neglect of their public duties.

At 2 o'clock Senator Sherman concluded his speech. He had been listened to with marked attention, and was congratulated by his Republican associates. Mr. Blair asked that the educational bill be laid aside to allow Mr. Voorhees to reply to Mr. Sherman, but intimated his unwillingness to yield further.

Mr. Voorhees took the floor for a speech in defense of the president's message, and commendation of the administration.

Mr. Voorhees denounced the statements of Messrs. Sherman, Teller and other Republicans in criticism of the president's message as incivility and misleading and asserted that by way of preparation for the coming presidential message. Republican legislators and journals were endeavoring by gross misrepresentation to put the president and the Democratic party in an attitude of hostility to American manufacturing interest. Nothing could be more unjust or unfair. Under the leadership of Grover Cleveland the Democratic party demanded such revision of the tariff, such reduction of revenue and surplus, and such administration of the powers of government, as was most beneficial to all interests, and most fully in harmony with the general welfare. The president's message would bear the light of discussion, analysis and debate. The frosts of next November would blight the Republican misrepresentations and rebuke the Republican senators who characterized as a "humbug" the fearless, sound and statesmanlike message of the president. Mr. Voorhees proceeded to defend in detail the president's theories of tariff revision.

Confident of Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Whatever uncertainty may be entertained by the public in regard to the confirmation by the senate of Messrs. Lamar, Vilas and Dickinson, it is quite certain that the gentlemen most interested have but little if any doubt on the subject. Mr. Dickinson is so confident of remaining in Washington that he has leased a house for a term of years at an annual rental of $15,000. In addition to this he is a daily visitor at the post office department, where he passes the time familiarizing himself with the routine of department work. He sits with Postmaster General Vilas and receives from him hints and ideas about the work and watches him as he despatches it.

Mr. Vilas apparently entertains no doubt of confirmation. There are many indications that he expects soon to vacate the department. Equally confident is Secretary Lamar, who, for some time past, had the clerks in his office preparing for his signature, final statements of the various Indian trust funds, of which the secretary of the interior is, by reason of his office, the trustee. In both departments the officials are preparing for a change, and though it may be delayed it is claimed that sufficient pledges have been received from Republican senators to make the three confirmations certain.

A Political Stroke.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Considerable comment has been occasioned here because the name of Mr. Eugene Higgins, late appointed clerk of the treasury, is not on the slate for clerk of the Maryland house of representatives. This omission, however, causes no surprise among "knowing Marylanders," who say that it was never seriously contemplated that Mr. Higgins was to have that position. Those gentlemen claim that Mr. Higgins has been slated by Mr. Gorman for a much more lucrative place; "one in which his abilities as an organizer will not be confined to the narrow limits of a single state, but 'one in which he can figure in several,' namely: That of deputy auditor of the Baltimore & Ohio railway, this appointment, which, according to utterances of Mr. Higgins' friends, will soon be made, is said to be the result of a compromise between Senator Gorman and Mr. A. W. Cowen, who so bitterly opposed the senator in the recent local elections, and means the burial of the hatred by those gentlemen. As a political stroke, the selection of Mr. Higgins for the position mentioned, is viewed by Senator Gorman's friends as evidence of far-seeing sagacity.

Dropped Dead in the Street.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Shortly after midnight, Charles S. Moore, one of the best known young lawyers in this city, suddenly dropped dead while crossing E street at Thirteenth, northwest. Mr. Moore had just eaten a hearty lunch and was with a party of friends. He died without a struggle. His remains were at once taken to his residence on Twelfth street and Dr. Staunton summoned, who pronounced his death the result of cerebral apoplexy. Mr. Moore has been in the best of health and the last words he spoke were words of merriment. Deceased was a prominent candidate for the position of district attorney. His physician had anticipated some such end, but his friends had never imagined such a thing. Five minutes before he died there was no jollier, no healthier looking man. He was a great favorite among the young Democracy of the District of Columbia.

Nothing to Do With the Pope.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—It is denied at the state department that the president ignored Judge Stallo, our minister to Rome, when he availed himself of the services of Cardinal Gibbons to present his jubilee gift to the pope. Judge Stallo is simply accredited as minister to Italy, and has no more to do with the pope than any person outside of the diplomatic service. The story about his having refused to attend a banquet because a cardinal was present is regarded by intimate friends of Judge Stallo here as erroneous. These friends say that the judge, who is widely known as a most accomplished and courteous gentleman, is utterly incapable of wilfully offending either Catholic or Protestant clergymen.

The House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Mr. Mills, of Texas, stated that the speaker would not announce the committees to-day. Unanimous consent was given to introduce bills. Under the call of states the following were introduced and referred.

By Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, to provide for the reduction of customs duties; also granting pensions to survivors of Indian wars who have obtained the age of seventy years; also for the refunding of the cotton tax; also to remove the tax from tobacco and spirits made from fruits; also to authorize women to enter lands under the homestead law.

Fishery Conference Postponed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The meeting of the representatives of the United States and British governments appointed to consider the fisheries question which was to have been held at the state department to-day, has been postponed until the 7th inst. on account of the inability of one of the members to be in Washington before that date.

Recess Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—A number of recess nominations were sent to the senate to-day by the president. They included the members of the interstate commerce commission, several territorial appointments, receivers of public monies, etc., pertaining to the interior department.

Death of General Alexander.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Gen. E. B. Alexander died in this city on Monday, aged eighty-five. He was a graduate of West Point and was a distinguished officer of the Mexican war, and also in the war of the rebellion.

Some Other Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Speaker Carlisle hoped up to five minutes to 12 o'clock to be able to announce the house committees to-day, but at that time determined that he would be unable to do so.

After Congressional Honors.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The News, Marquette, Mich., special says: The fight for the late Mr. Moffatt's seat in congress has narrowed down to Jay Hubbell, against Col. Charles G. Osborne, of Marquette, with the chances strongly in favor of the latter. Col. Osborne was formerly collector of this port, and is a political power in the district. He is in to down Hubbell, and in all parts of the district a large number of Republicans who have no use for "Our Jay" are rallying to his support. The eastern politicians interested in Lake Superior mines are throwing their influence in this vicinity for Col. Osborne, and even in Gogebic county Republicans are working hard for him, and his nomination seems to be assured.

Battle Between Blacks and Whites.
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—A party of negro soldiers from Jefferson barracks, Mo., suddenly assaulted a white woman on the road near "Kelly's ranch." Fifty white soldiers hurried to arrest them, while a squad of negroes reinforced their comrades and a battle ensued in which three soldiers were wounded and fifty-three of the negroes were arrested.

An Early Morning Blaze.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 5.—At 3:15 o'clock this morning Turner hall, on South Canal street, Allegheny, was burned. Loss, $15,000.

SIXTY THOUSAND MEN OUT.

SUCH IS THE EFFECTS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA MINERS' STRIKE.

A Dismal Coal Famine Likely to Result, Which Will Completely Paralyze Business—Arbitration to be Tried by Business Men—Other Labor News.

READING, Pa., Jan. 5.—The proprietors of furnaces and iron works in this section predict that if the mines are shut down for two weeks the majority of large establishments will close for lack of coal. Many of them gave the Reading railroad orders for coal over a month ago, but the company has not been able to fill them.

Reading, Birdsboro, Norristown, Pottstown, Hamburg and other small industrial towns, will be completely paralyzed if work at the mines ceases.

The business men of this end of the Schuylkill valley talk of pressing President Corbin into arbitrating the miners' strike.

The strike will throw 30,000 iron-workers, as well as 30,000 miners, out of work. Reports from the coal regions say nearly all the company collieries are idle. Four hundred railroad men in the coal carrying trade were discharged until full coal shipments are resumed.

Unchanged at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The strike is in a state of statu quo, and nobody knows what to do next. The strikers evidently thought to make one grand coup by ordering out the miners, but in reality has had but little effect here. Nearly all the men that will go out are already out, and each day the inexperienced men taken in their places by the company are becoming more familiar with the business and the work is done much quicker and better. This morning ten freight handlers and six shippers stopped work at Willow and Noble street wharves. At Keystone hall, Second and Poplar streets, Joseph P. Cahill read a telegram from P. J. Kelley, of Shenandoah, saying that all the hands were out there. There is very little work going on in Port Richmond to-day. A committee from Third and Berks streets went among the men employed along Pennsylvania avenue, and endeavored to get them to go out, but they were unsuccessful.

The situation at other points in the city remain unchanged.

Paying an Eight Per Cent. Advance.

MT. CARMEL, Jan. 5.—Proprietors of the Bellmor, Morris, Ridge, Mount Carmel, Centralia and Excelsior collieries, employing 2,000 hands, agreed to pay the 8 per cent. miners' advance, and work will be resumed.

Strikers Strengthening.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 5.—Each hour seems to strengthen the strikers. Two companies and about fifteen thousand individual collieries are in operation, but to-day there will be hardly half this number at work.

Paying an Advance.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Jan. 5.—The Enterprise Coal company has agreed to pay its miners the 8 per cent. advance. The miners at the Nelson shaft struck yesterday.

Only One Colliery Working.

ASHLAND, Pa., Jan. 5.—Knights of Labor miners went out on a strike and but one Reading colliery in the district is working.

RESPONSIBLE FOR THE WRECK.

Conductor Strum and Engineer Michaels to Blame for the Southern Disaster.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5.—The official report of the wreck on the Cincinnati Southern, near Somerset, Ky., last Saturday, confirms the statement that Conductor Strum and Engineer Michaels are responsible for the accident. The former read his order wrong, and the latter failed to read his order at all.

W. B. Powell, the Baltimore & Ohio express messenger killed, was buried at Madisonville, O., Tuesday. The deceased was a prominent Knight of Pythias, Mason and Odd Fellow, and his lodges attended the funeral.

John R. Gibson, the merchant, and E. L. Sackett, the newsboy, injured in the wreck, are improving.

The search for the remains of the dead in the wreck continues. Four bodies burned to a crisp beyond recognition were exhumed Tuesday, and others are said to be still in the burning debris.

Fears were entertained Tuesday that the daughter of Prof. Patterson, late of Walnut Hills but now located at St. Augustine, Florida, was a victim. The finding of the letters addressed "Lulu" and signed "Bona" strengthened the rumor. Conductor Bennett, of train No. 1, stated Tuesday that the passengers of his train were all accounted for, and that he was positive there were no more bodies in the wreck. He also says his train was not running over twenty-five miles an hour, and that the other train was running at least fifty miles an hour when the collision occurred.

The complete list of the identified dead to date is as follows:

Lawrence Callan, Ludlow, Ky.; Lee Withrow, Ludlow, Ky.; M. B. Powell, Madisonville, O.; C. L. Candee, Chattanooga; James Severance, Stanford, Ky.; J. H. Avey, Covington; Mrs. J. H. Avey, Covington, Jessie Green, Chattanooga.

The complete list of the injured is as follows: W. E. Jackson, Covington; W. T. Roberts, Chattanooga; Pat Taylor, Somerset, Ky.; W. B. Michaels, Chattanooga; Pat Murphy, Chattanooga; Harry Patton, Cincinnati; L. E. Sackett, Cincinnati; Joe Nolan, Chattanooga; John B. Gibson, Cincinnati; J. E. Campbell, Alliance, O.; J. C. Burch, Louisville, Ky.; Joe Heph, Covington, and Miss Bena Knoeble, Ripley.

REVIVING ROWAN TROUBLES.

The Legislature at it Now, and Will Send a Committee to Investigate the Court Proceedings.

For months past Morehead has been about as quiet, as peaceful and as prosperous a place as any town of her size in the State. Her merchants have been doing a good business, there has been a steady advance in the value of her real estate, and confidence has been restored to her citizens. Since Craig Tolliver and his gang were so summarily dealt with, the general opinion has prevailed that the Rowan lawlessness, which had been a disgrace to the State so long, was forever at an end. Everything has served to strengthen this opinion.

The Tolliverites are rarely ever heard of now, and the good citizens of Morehead have gone earnestly at work to redeem the place, and in this they are meeting with success, if all reports are true. The people of the State have been in hopes that the Rowan troubles would be heard of no more, but the Legislature has brought the matter to the front. The following resolution was introduced in the house last Tuesday:

"WHEREAS, Information has been received by this General Assembly, through the message of the Governor and the reports of the Adjutant General and Captain Ernest MacPherson, in reference to the continual factional warfare and riots in Rowan County; and

"WHEREAS, It sufficiently appears from said message and said reports that there are reasonable grounds to suspect that Judge A. E. Cole, Judge of Fourteenth Judicial district, has been guilty of gross official misconduct, if not corruption in office, in connection with the trials of persons engaged in said riots; and

"WHEREAS, Said reports reflect severely and either justly or unjustly upon his course as Judge of the Rowan Circuit Court, and upon his integrity as an officer of this Commonwealth; and whereas, the condition of affairs in said county earnestly demands the serious consideration of this General Assembly.

"Therefore be it resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That a joint committee of the two houses, consisting of five members from the House and three from the Senate, to be designated by the respective Speakers thereof, be appointed to thoroughly investigate the said troubles, as well as the causes thereof, in Rowan County, and to fully and fairly investigate said charges against the Judge of the Rowan Circuit Court, as well as the reflections upon his official conduct, and to send to the duty of said committee to visit Rowan County and the town of Morehead, and to take proof and hear such evidence as they may, in their discretion, deem proper, and said committee shall have power to summons witnesses and compel their attendance, and to send for persons and papers. And said committee shall make full reports in writing to this General Assembly of its meetings and doings at the earliest date possible."

Mr. Gooding, of Mason, moved to eliminate that part which referred to Judge Cole. Under the rules Mr. Reed's resolution went over and the motion was out of order.

Now that the matter has been brought up it is to be hoped the investigation will be full, but fair to all parties. It is hardly necessary to say that no one has been found here in Maysville, where Judge Cole is best known, who believes that he has been guilty of any "gross official misconduct." A prominent Republican in referring to the resolution said:

"I can't see what the Legislature is up to. Judge Cole has had the law on his side in everything he has done at Morehead."

The Lexington Transcript, referring to the matter, says: "As to Judge Cole being guilty of any malfeasance in his discharge of the duties of Judge, we do not believe it possible. It is a well known fact that the officers of a court of justice are almost powerless to execute the law unless supported by public sentiment. A Judge can only preside in his court and see that the jury has the cases properly presented; but if the state of public sentiment is such that the jury refuses to find the proper verdict, the Judge is powerless. If the Legislature wants to give Rowan lawlessness a black eye, it should divide the county and attach portions of it to neighboring counties. This would divide the factions, so that any one of them would feel compelled to obey the laws."

Representative Gooding, of this county, will offer an amendment to the resolution that the investigation be made at Frankfort instead of Morehead. To a Courier Journal reporter, Mr. Gooding said: "I am not the partisan of Judge Cole, nor am I in any way connected with the factional fights of Rowan County. I am of the opinion that a fuller and a fairer hearing could be had should the committee discharge its obligation right here (at Frankfort). I want Judge Cole to have an impartial hearing, and if what has been alleged against him is sustained, I want the world to know it."

Judge Cole hopes a thorough investigation will be made.

ARRESTS AND FINES.

The Record Made by the City Marshall and His Deputies the Past Year.

Mayor Pearce will make his annual report to the City Council to-night. From it is taken the figures which show the number of arrests made and fines collected the past year by Marshal Hefflin and his Deputies:

ARRESTS MADE IN 1887.
James Hefflin..... 335
W. B. Dawson..... 292
Thomas Gullfoyle..... 170
Total..... 697

FINES COLLECTED.
James Hefflin..... $ 632 25
W. B. Dawson..... 1,096 32
Thomas Gullfoyle..... 394 51
Total..... $2,123 08

While all the officers have done well, Deputy Marshal Dawson's friends take special pride in the record he has made, as shown by the above figures.

"Monte Cristo."

The performance of "Monte Cristo" at the Avenue theatre last night was successful. The version of the drama was a new one. The scenery used is good, and the performance as a whole was a clever one; it certainly pleased the audience, for the outbursts of applause were frequent. Benedict himself is a good actor and his presence in the cast infuses life in the play, encourages the actors and gains success for the troupe.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

At opera house to-night. Go see it. Prices of admission are published elsewhere.

A Coal Road.

Says the Cincinnati Enquirer: "When Huntington's new road, the Maysville and Big Sandy, now in course of construction, is completed, Cincinnati will have a first-class coal road, and will not be longer dependent upon the Ohio River for her supply of coal. This road will be finished by next June and cars will be running into Cincinnati by next October, by which time the Huntington bridge over the Ohio at this point will be completed. The coal dealers will of course be glad to see the Maysville and Big Sandy in operation."

"Blood on the Moon."

Squire Beasley, of Aberdeen, sends a list of some of his late marriages to the Paris Kentuckian-Citizen, and closes his communication as follows:

Now in conclusion, I will say to you that some infernal fool of a correspondent of the Times-Democrat, published at Flemingsburg, has undertaken to meddle himself with my affairs, in regard to the marriages which take place here. He calls it a nefarious business which robs parties to enrich my coffers, and further, that the shot-gun policy will be adopted to check me up, and that rape will be hung on the door of the matrimonialist. Well, sir, if he is as clear of robbery or robbing as I am, he would be an honest man and truthful correspondent. As for his threats of the shot-gun practice he has attacked his right man, and if he desires that kind of play he can have all the fun he wants in that line; and as to having rape around my matrimonial affairs, he may possibly find rape on his own door-knob. I merely make this statement, as perhaps many of my Kentucky friends—which are many thousands—might possibly think that this dirty, contemptible correspondent, whoever he may be, would be led astray by his dirty, foul mouth correspondence. MARRIE BEASLEY.

Week of Prayer Services.

A large congregation gathered at the Christian Church last night to unite in carrying out the programme for the week of prayer.

The meeting to-night will be at the court house and the speakers will be Revs. Russell Cecil and W. S. Priest. It is requested that the congregation will bring copies of Gospel Hymns with them. The subject is as follows:

"Prayer for the Church of God.—For every branch of the one universal Church, that all may be filled with the Holy Ghost and enabled to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace; for more love and co-operation among Christians; for the removal of needless causes of division; for the better observance of the Lord's day; for greater wisdom and zeal to labor for the conversion of the ungodly, the religious education of the young, and the growth of believers; for the Spirit of Truth to guide students of His word into a fuller understanding of it; for bishops, pastors, evangelists and church councils; for the attainment by all the Lord's people of a higher standard of holiness and consecration to service; for a more faithful testimony against false teaching; and for the speedy coming of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.—Psa. xlv: lxxxiv; lxxxvii; cxxii; cxxxii; Gen. xxviii, 10-22; xxxii, 24-32; 1 Kings viii, 22-30; Isa. liii; Joel ii, 23-32; John xv; xvii; Eph. i, 15-23; ii, 11-22; iii, 14-21, iv, 1-16; 1 Cor. xiii; Rev. xxi, 1-7.

Personal.

Dr. J. W. Ishmael has been at Paris this week on business.

Louis Mase and Miss Mary O'Mara went to Lexington yesterday to attend a Leap Year hop.

John T. Collopy, of Mayslick, is visiting friends and relatives in this county.—Paris Kentuckian.

Miss Katie Niland left for Lexington yesterday where she will make a short visit, thence she will go to Georgetown, Kentucky.

Miss Mamie Fitzgerald accompanied by P. J. Murphy, left on the noon train yesterday to attend the Leap Year hop at Lexington, Ky.

The Paris Kentuckian Citizen says quite a bevy of Mason County girls, who have been at home from college at Harrodsburg, enjoying the holidays with relatives and friends, returned last Tuesday evening to their studies with hearts full of hope and faces as bright as the sunshine. Among them were Misses Alma Osborne, Sue Pickett, two Misses Smoot, Miss Downing and others.

Pittsburg Coal.

There was plenty water at Pittsburg Tuesday to send out all the coal loaded, but the Davis Island dam got out of fix and only about 1,000,000 bushels had been shipped up to yesterday morning.

Yesterday the boat "Little Bill" in making the narrow passage at the dam struck some of the wickets, knocking them down and clearing the channel for 200 feet. This will enable 3,000,000 bushels to get through. The "Little Bill" wasn't damaged.

THE POWER OF BISMARCK.

HE IS MORE SECURE NOW THAN EVER BEFORE.

The New Year Opens Very Auspiciously for Him—The Prelates at Rome Debating About the Successor to Leo XIII—Various Other Foreign Dispatches.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The beginning of the new year sees Prince Bismarck to all appearance more secure than ever in his tenure of power. He would be more than human if the exposure and disgrace of his most prominent enemies did not offend him. Some gratifying reflections, and he probably deems it a good augury that the year 1888 has opened so auspiciously for him. From the beginning of his career he has been the object of the hatred and intrigues of a coterie comprising some of the highest personages in the realm.

The crown prince and his wife have not hesitated to make known their dislike to the grim chancellor, and to give a tacit approbation to the plots against him, these formerly had their inception at the salon of the Countess Von Schleinitz, and the groups which that brilliant woman enlisted in her service, labored night and day to convince ruler and people that Bismarck's policy was sure to lead Germany in to dangerous complications. Prominent among her allies was a young attaché of the Austrian embassy, whom the countess, when left a widow, subsequently married, and with whom she is now at St. Petersburg, as the Countess Walenstein-Trostburg. Here she has relentlessly pursued her intrigues, aimed by her old Berlin friends. Her intimate correspondents have been two sisters, the Countess Perponcher and the Countess Prillwitz, wives respectively of the seneschal of the court and the grand chancellor of the emperor.

In these letters the projects of Bismarck were criticized and commented upon in very favorable manner, as may be supposed, and when proper material was lacking, it is stated that the fair writers did not scruple to manufacture events and attribute motives with great credit to their ingenuity. These epistles, as it was intended, reached the eyes of the czar after passing through the hands of some of his relatives of the gentler sex and caused the feelings of uncertainty between Russia and Germany, which have only been recently mitigated.

When Prince Bismarck obtained proofs of the identity of the conspirators he laid them before the emperor and demanded justice. The Count Prillwitz was dismissed from the high station which he had occupied so long at court, and unable to endure the associations which connected with the capital has retired to Weisbaden, where he can profitably employ his time in exchanging ideas with his wife as to the wisdom of any further warfare against Prince Bismarck. Count Perponcher, after having made a trip to Fredericksruhe to tender his apologies to Bismarck for the mischief done by his wife, and whom the chancellor positively refused to see, is awaiting his probable fate in humiliation and fear.

The retired life led by the czar for the past few years has rendered it impossible to deceive him so long concerning the designs of Germany, but it is a sad proof of the instability of European affairs that a knot of malignant and unscrupulous women can so nearly involve the two greatest powers of the continent in a sanguinary war to gratify their spite against a statesman for whom they cherished an intense and unreasoning personal dislike.

A Successor to the Pope.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—A Roman correspondent says that in anticipation of the pope's early demise a successor is being discussed. The sentiment is that the next pope shall not be an Italian.

At the pope's reception to the Italian committee yesterday, at which nearly one thousand persons were present, Leo XIII. declared that Italy alone, among other countries, had shown a disposition to isolate herself from the papacy.

The pope will present the jubilee money to St. Peter's treasury that it may be expended in propaganda.

The Czar Favors Peace.

VIENNA, Jan. 5.—Count Zuleff, attaché of the Russian embassy, says he finds that the czar is absolutely opposed to war. The czar and family will come from the Gatchin palace to St. Petersburg at the end of the week, to remain for ten weeks. The czar will be guarded by several hundred detectives.

Germany Can Whip the World.

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—Counselor Von Ladenburg, the German consul at Paris, brags that Germany is stronger than France, and fears neither her nor any other nation. He says further that Germany could resist an attack from three sides at once.

AT OHIO'S CAPITAL.

The Proceedings of Both the House and Senate at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5.—Speaker Lammson began business to-day by appointing the following committees:

Labor—Evan H. Davis, John P. Haley, Oliver Outcalt, Alfred Robinson, N. H. Hyatt, John B. Lawlor, Boston G. Young.

Municipal corporations—John P. Haley, C. P. Griffin, Oliver Outcalt, George L. Rawlins, B. S. Wydan, Charles L. Doran, J. C. McGregor, Wickliffe Belleville, Boston G. Young.

Public printing—Messrs. Stranahan, Shearer, Doran, Lantz, Kreis, Gaumer and Lawlor.

John R. Malloy was elected assistant clerk in the house to-day. He was warmly applauded as he came up to take the oath.

The most important bill introduced was by Geyer to abandon the Paulding reservoir. The same old bill of last winter.

In the senate Townsend introduced a long resolution condemning the appointment of Lamar. It was ordered printed. Rathbone's resolution indorsing Foraker's position on the return of the flags, was passed by a party vote. McGregor introduced a bill practically repealing the Arnett mixed school bill by allowing boards to provide separate colored schools when the people want them.

Enforcing the Liquor Law.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—A new task was taken in the liquor cases yesterday by the law and order league. The wholesale houses and a prominent druggist were served with original notices, claiming of each defendant $2,400 for illegally under permit selling liquor to minors. The persistent efforts of the league are causing consternation in liquor circles. Public gambling houses have closed.

INDUSTRIAL REFORM PARTY.

Belva Lockwood interviewed on Her Prospects for President in 1888.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Belva A. Lockwood, the first female lawyer, and the first and only woman who ever ran for president, has returned to Washington, after an absence of two or three weeks on a lecturing tour through New York and Pennsylvania. Mrs. Lockwood looks forward to the approaching campaign, and wonders if she is again to be called upon to contest for presidential honors.

"I can not tell," she said, when asked if she would be a candidate. "When the equal rights party nominated me four years ago, it came as a surprise. The lightning has struck me once, and I do not know whether to assume an attitude of expectancy or not. Still if Mr. Blaine and Mr. Cleveland are to be again chosen, it would carry out the coincidence to have me again in the field."

"Is your old party still alive?"

"Not in its original shape. It has been merged into the industrial reform party, which proposes also to absorb all parties interested in labor reform. We are going to organize on a platform that can stand upon. We do not go so far as Henry George does to say that property which a man has earned should be divided, but we think that the unappropriated lands of the government, should be devoted to giving homes to poor deserving men. We want women's wages to be equal to men's. These white slaves of which the New York papers have been telling us, are to be our special care."

"When will your party enter the field?"

"We hold our first conference of the campaign in this city on the 23d of February. We will have delegates here from every state, and we will begin the work of thorough organization."

Sudden Advance in the Price of Oil.

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 5.—Yesterday has been the most exciting day in the oil market in two years, the price advancing from ninety-one and one-quarter cents to ninety-six cents, with heavy buying in all the exchanges. This is the highest point reached since November, 1885, and the feeling is strong since the close, ninety-seven cents being freely bid this evening. "This is not all short covering, you may rely on that," said an experienced broker. "The public are in the market, sure as you live. Refined advanced in New York from seven and one-half cents to seven and five-eighths cents and in London it was firmer."

The List of Victims Increases.

SOMERSET, Ky., Jan. 5.—Yesterday's revelations, following the discoveries of Monday evening make it certain that half the real story of the wreck on the Cincinnati Southern has not been told. Monday evening the partial remains of two more women and one child were found. There is not the slightest clue as to who they are. Yesterday morning the remains supposed to be those of four more persons were dug out of the still smoking ruins. The number of dead heretofore reported was eight. There is no doubt that the number is twenty. Counting the remains found Monday night the number is fifteen. Both the trains were crowded.

Keely, the Motor Man, Enjoined.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—Judge Finletter, in the court of common pleas, on complaint of Bennett C. Wilson, issued a preliminary injunction against John W. Keely, the inventor of the Keely motor, commanding him not to remove the motor from the place where it now is, or vary the construction and mode of operation of the machine, nor to sell, assign or in any manner incur the invention.

Anxious For a Husband.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Miss Clara Campbell, daughter of John Campbell, of Ironton, O., formerly one of the wealthiest iron men of that state, begins suit to-day in the supreme court here, against Charles Arbuckle, a wealthy coffee merchant of this city for breach of promise of marriage. Miss Campbell claims $100,000 damages.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Fair weather, except rain on the lakes, warmer, followed by cooler, fresh to brisk southerly winds becoming variable.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.
